Activity 1 : Transformation

During the play session we transformed every day, re-purposed objects into play materials using the power of our imagination. What things do you have around your home or setting that can be transformed?

Perhaps loo roll tubes can become telescopes? Or your sofa cushion turns into a trampoline?

Follow your child's lead and watch objects transform through their eyes!

Activity 2 : Mirroring

What happens when you let your child lead? During the play sessions we followed the children's lead and explored their curiosities and interests.

You could start by physically mirroring your child's movements and vocalisations.

You can have a non-verbal conversation by developing your child's physical and vocal offers and seeing how they grow and how your child responds.

Activity 3 : Mirroring

Watch how your child responds and what they remember from the play and performance.

Perhaps you'll have some regulating play together? A jumping competition? Or an upbeat dance party?

Can your voices and everyday objects re-create the instruments?

Use the music as an opportunity to express yourselves creatively and physically.
